Overview

The current pandemic and the subsequent COVID-19 related travel restrictions limiting global mobility, have not been entirely suspended. Depending on the varied health impacts of COVID-19 and resulting concerns, travel restrictions continue to be tightened or eased by governments and/or authorities. As of 23rd July 2020, a total of 219 countries, territories or areas have issued 75,852 travel restrictions indicating an increase of 4 per cent from 73,008 restrictions recorded as of 20th July 2020.1 There has been an increase of 13 per cent in medical restrictions and an increase of 11 per cent on restrictions on specific nationalities. Additionally, there has been a 3 per cent decrease in visa restrictions. In parallel to existing travel restrictions, a total of 177 countries, territories or areas have issued 656 exceptions to enable mobility despite general travel restrictions. Between 20th and 23rd July 2020, 8 countries, territories or areas have issued 14 new exceptions whilst 3 countries, territories or areas (C/T/As) have removed 5 exceptions.

Important: This analysis does not capture pre-COVID-19 related travel restrictions, rather it draws attention to various travel restrictions issued as a result of COVID-19. This report focuses on the changes to pre-existing measures affecting passengers travelling through specific routes or with specific travel documentation and nationalities. The number of restrictions recorded in this report is indicative of the total number of COVID-19 related travel restrictions since 8th March 2020, when IOM began monitoring the impact of travel restrictions on global mobility as a result of COVID-19. More specifically, this analysis highlights emerging changes as a result of COVID-19 travel requirements to support identifying border management practices. This analysis does not aim to provide information on exact travel requirements. For specific and updated travel information, kindly refer to respective Consular authorities of the destination country. International Air Transport Association (IATA) and relevant airline companies may be a valid alternative to explore.

1 This report has been amended, please note that due to a technical error the previously published report COVID-19 Travel Restrictions Output 20 July 2020 had reported the total number of travel restrictions as 73,008. The correct number is 73,589. All corrections have been implemented in this report and that subsequent reports which make comparisons with data from 20th July 2020 have used the correct figure.
